Student Organization Recognition Terms and Conditions

This document certifies that Computer Science Enrichment Club has fulfilled all institutional requirements of the Policy on the Recognition of Campus Groups, University of Toronto, and has been granted recognition as a student organization. Recognition will cease on 4/30/2017 at which point the Computer Science Enrichment Club will be responsible for re-applying for recognition as a student organization at the University of Toronto Scarborough.

Policy on the Recognition of Campus Groups

In its relations with student organizations, the University is committed to ensuring that all University members can communicate and explore all ideas freely, organize in groups for any lawful purpose, move about the University and use its facilities in any reasonable way, distribute on campus, in a responsible way, published material provided that it is not unlawful, hold meetings, debate and to engage in peaceful demonstrations, and be free from discrimination on the basis of sex, race or religion.

Recognition as a campus group is a privilege based upon observance of certain procedures and acceptance of certain responsibilities. It follows that this privilege can be withdrawn if these procedures are neglected or responsibilities abrogated by the organization or group. Under the terms of this policy the University will not attempt to censor, control or interfere with any group on the basis of its philosophy, beliefs, interests or opinions expressed unless and until these lead to activities which are illegal or which infringe the rights and freedoms of others.

By the same token, recognition as a campus group by the University implies neither endorsement of a particular group's beliefs or philosophy, nor the assumption of legal liability for the group's activities. It assumes only that the University has a responsibility to inform itself of organizations which use its facilities and name, to enforce institutional policies as it relates to activities taking place on campus, and to deny or withdraw recognition if the requirements of this policy are not observed.

Statement on Freedom of Speech

In policies approved by the Governing Council, the University community has held that the essential purpose of the University is to engage in the pursuit of truth, the advancement of learning and the dissemination of knowledge. To achieve this purpose, all members of the University must have as a prerequisite freedom of speech and expression, which means the right to examine, question, investigate, speculate, and comment on any issue without reference to prescribed doctrine, as well as the right to criticize the University and society at large.

Of necessity, there are limits to the right of free speech. When members of the University use speech to deliberately prevent the lawful exercise of speech by others or interfere with the conduct of authorized University business, the University may intervene. Similarly, although no member of the University should use language or indulge in behavior intended to demean others on basis of their race, ancestry, place of origin, colour, ethnic origin, citizenship, creed, sex, sexual orientation, handicap, age, marital status, family status, the receipt of public assistance or record of offence, the values of mutual respect and civility may, on occasion, be superseded by the need to protect lawful freedom of speech.

The right to free speech is complemented by the right of freedom of association, and extends to individuals participating in groups. All members have the freedom to communicate in any reasonable way, to hold and advertise meetings, to debate and to engage in peaceful assemblies and demonstrations, to organize groups for any lawful activities and to make reasonable use of University facilities, in accordance with its policies.

Contract

I, Brian (Yu Xiang) Chen, representing the Computer Science Enrichment Club agree to the following terms and conditions of recognition as a student organization at the University of Toronto Scarborough:

1. The Computer Science Enrichment Club fundamentally serves a non-profit function and will not engage in activities that are essentially commercial in nature.
2. The Computer Science Enrichment Club operates independently of the University, but is subject to all policies and procedures of the University of Toronto.
3. Membership in the Computer Science Enrichment Club is open to all students, staff, faculty, and alumni of the University of Toronto Scarborough.
4. The Computer Science Enrichment Club will protect the privacy of member information and must use it only for the delivery of service and not for commercial gain.
5. The Computer Science Enrichment Club will abide by all pertinent University of Toronto policies, procedures, and guidelines. Where the University's policies, procedures, and guidelines conflict with those of Computer Science Enrichment Club, the University's policies, procedures, and guidelines will take precedent.
6. The Computer Science Enrichment Club will abide by terms, conditions, and processes of its constitution at all times and will submit all changes to its constitution to the Department of Student Life for review prior to amendment to ensure they do not violate University policy.
7. The Computer Science Enrichment Club will all submit applications for all activities to the University for assessment of risk and will not promote such activities until approved by a representative of the University of Toronto Scarborough.
8. The Computer Science Enrichment Club will conform to all Provincial, Municipal, and University of Toronto Health Regulations regulating the sale and/or service of food products for activities held on the premises.

Failure to abide by any these terms and conditions will result in suspension of privileges or other consequences appropriate to the violation in question. Repeated violations of these terms and conditions will result in revocation of recognition as a student organization at the University of Toronto Scarborough.
